Get up to speed with the changes to the GACP and maintain best practice.

Welcome to the express edition! You have been applying your knowledge from the 2018 publication. The revised Generally Accepted Compliance Practice Framework © (GACP) is now effective. This express course has been developed to highlight and unpack the changes to the framework.

The revised version of the GACP recognises the importance of having a Compliance management system that effectively addresses all critical aspects of compliance management. It introduces an outcomes-based approach to compliance management.

The GACP framework now consists of principles, outcomes, standards, and supplementary guides that act as a benchmark for compliance best practice that organisations and their compliance officers should apply.

Key take aways:
- Access the new GACP platform.
- Understand the new structure of the framework.
- Understand the core changes in the structure and content of the new GACP.

Who should attend:
- Compliance officers – those responsible for compliance in their organisation.
- Compliance administrators – those individuals in a compliance-related role.
- Novices to compliance management – those who are starting their careers in compliance.
- Risk Managers.

- Company Secretaries.
- Those in a governance-related role.
- Students – studying or exploring a career in a compliance-related role.
- Those individuals who have registered to write the board exam to obtain their CPrac (SA) designation.
- Students of the Compliance Officer Qualification who are enrolling to write the External Integrated Summative Assessment exam (EISA).

Included in the training:
- Slide deck.
- Access to the 2024 GACP platform for 3 months (unless you are a member in good standing).
